Additional Information

It is recommended that students read the first FOUR items on the reading list before the first class.

Course Description

This course will examine the ability of the law to guarantee equality for Canadians. The student will be provided the opportunity to gain an understanding of the legal system, including Canadian criminal, civil, constitutional and human rights law, as well as international law. We will consider how it may impact differently on different groups and how people have sought reforms to the law to incorporate equality norms. Topics will include the legal definition of equality, employment law, personal injury awards, violence against women, family law and international protection of rights.

Objectives of the Course

By the end of the course, students should be able to demonstrate a general understanding of the legal issues involved in the topics considered and an appreciation of the social values underlying the issues discussed in class.

Textbooks and Readings:

The majority of readings will be provided in a list on blackboard with electronic links. Students may individually print off the materials to bring to class. In addition, there may be a coursepack available for sale at the bookstore. Students will be informed by blackboard if this is possible.

Schedule of Lectures and Readings

To be provided on the first day of lectures.

Plagiarism

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possibly suspension or expulsion from the university.

You must document not only direct quotations but also paraphrases and ideas where they appear in your text. A reference list at the end is insufficient by itself. Readers must be able to tell exactly where your words and ideas end and other people's words and ideas begin. This includes assignments submitted in non-traditional formats such as Web pages or visual media, and material taken from such sources.

Please consult your instructor if you have any questions regarding how to document sources.

Internet and electronic communication device information

Use of internet and cell phones during class is strongly discouraged. All electronics are not allowed during examinations, including the open book midterm examination.
