Course Description

Placement at a museological or heritage institution.

The Practicum in Museum and Heritage Studies is designed to give students valuable work experience in a museum or heritage institution. With guidance from the coordinator, each student will obtain a placement at an institution and undertake a project in a specific area of museum or heritage work. Through the student's placement, assignments, and discussions with instructors, they will experience and reflect upon the working environment, challenges, and opportunities within the field of Museum and Heritage Studies.

Practicum areas include but are not limited to collections management, conservation, curation, exhibition design, programming, and education.

NB: The Practicum in Museum and Heritage Studies requires the student to commit 80 hours of work over the course of the term at the host institution, occasional meetings with the coordinator, keeping a journal, and a final assignment. Normally, students work about 6 hours per week during the term and should plan on conducting the majority of their hours at the host institution (if possibly during COVID). Students will arrange their schedules in consultation with the host and the coordinator.

Writing and Plagiarism

Writing skills are not exclusive to English courses and, in fact, should cross all disciplines. The University supports the belief that throughout their University careers, students should be taught how to write well so that when they graduate their writing abilities will be far above the minimal standards required at entrance. Consistent with this belief, students are expected to do a substantial amount of writing in their University courses and, where appropriate, members of faculty can and should use writing and the grading thereof as a factor in the evaluation of student work. The services provided by the Writing Support Services can be utilized by all undergraduate and graduate students who feel they require further assistance.

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possibly suspension or expulsion from the university. Visual art projects submitted for course credit must be produced by the student specifically for this class. Students must not submit projects if credit has or will be provided for it in another class. This includes re-worked assignments from previous or concurrent courses, unless permission is provided in writing by the instructor. Additionally, the student is asked to be mindful of using visual sources from the internet, ensuring that that material is not derived from any on-line or other available source, and that appropriate copyright permission is granted, when required.
