E. Catherine Barclay (1902-1985) was more than a beloved teacher of English and French. Whilst a high-school teacher in Calgary, she spearheaded a minor revolution by encouraging—sometimes insisting—that her students speak French in the classroom. This award was established to honour the memory of this outstanding educator and world citizen and provides the opportunity for students to study in their chosen field using their knowledge of French, to gain experience and an appreciation for living in another culture.
